Dear Client

As we approach the end of the year, it is necessary to plan ahead for certain tax requirements and their impact. Calculations need to be performed to compute the additional compensation (for W-2 purposes) resulting from the personal use of a company automobile, for life insurance premiums paid by the employer when the employer is not the beneficiary and for employer provided health insurance for the owners of S corporations. Also, the IRS continues to emphasize the need for S corporation shareholder-employees to take reasonable compensation in the form of wages.

- A. The value of the use of an automobile is calculated as if the employee leased a similar automobile for the amount of his/her personal use. Personal use also includes commuting, but not travel once arriving at the principal place of business. Please note that this calculation applies whether the company leased or purchased the vehicle. Remember, if you are a 5% or more owner of the company, you must assess your personal use of company-owned vehicles. We require the information on the following page for each automobile leased or owned by the company and used personally by an employee.
- B. The life insurance premiums paid by the company (when the Company is not the beneficiary) represents the value received by the employee, and therefore, are compensation. Please complete the attached page for each employee who has a policy provided by the company. This does not include group term life insurance provided to employees. If you provide group term life insurance, please let us know and we can discuss it further.
- C. S corporation owner/employees (greater than 2% ownership) are required to include their company sponsored and paid health insurance on their W-2 as taxable "Box 1" income. While the premium payments are included in taxable income, they are not to be included in taxable wages for Medicare, FICA, state and local (PA) tax purposes. The owner/employee can then deduct this amount "above the line" on their 1040. This is the only allowable method to deduct your health insurance premiums for S Corporation owners. Otherwise, the premiums will be subjected to the limitations as an itemized deduction and in most instances not be deducted. Please be sure to notify your payroll service of this or adjust your internal payroll reporting.
- D. S corporations with little or no officer/owner compensation, who are actively engaged in the business, are open to IRS scrutiny. Actively engaged owners must take reasonable compensation for their services. Without adequate compensation to owners the IRS will have a very strong position to make adjustments and assess substantial penalties. Please contact us should you need to address this issue or to discuss its application further for your business.

We certainly realize that it can be time consuming to gather this information. However, it is necessary to comply with these provisions. Your cooperation is greatly appreciated.

Please gather this information so that we can calculate the applicable compensation adjustments for you to provide to your payroll preparer. You can fax your response to Matthew Pucalik at 412.571.1635 or email your response to MatthewP@mda-cpa.com. Please allow enough time for us to prepare these payroll adjustments in conjunction with your payroll processing schedule so that it can be properly included in the 2019 payroll.

Best regards,
